Personal Foul

The Subpar Supporting Casts Were in Fact a Perfect Fit

Steve Nash, basketball crossover, NBA greats, AI3

Temperament, he was utterly incapable of playing on a championship team. The subpar supporting casts were in fact a perfect fit. The Sixers were a team of role players, not a team of stars. They didn’t care who scored the points, as long as they scored them in timely fashion.

Across the River

Federico Buffa 2012

Across the River

On the west bank of the Mississippi lies the New Orleans neighborhood of Algiers. Short on hope but big on dreams, its mostly poor and marginalized residents find joy on Friday nights when the Cougars of Edna Karr High School take the field. For years, this football program has brought glory to Algiers, winning three consecutive state championships and sending dozens of young men to college on football scholarships. Although he is preparing for a fourth title, head coach Brice Brown is focused on something else: keeping his players alive. An epidemic of gun violence plagues New Orleans and its surrounding communities and has claimed many innocent lives, including Brown's former star quarterback, Tollette "Tonka" George, shot near a local gas station. In Across the River, award-winning sports journalist Kent Babb follows the Karr football team through its 2019 season as Brown and his team confront the pressures and burdens of playing football in the face of death and destruction. Activists in struggling neighborhoods grapple with addiction, mentalhealth issues, the drug trade, and gun violence. It offers a rich and captivating portrait of a coach, his players, and the West Bank, a community where it's difficult—but not impossible—to rise above the chaos, discover purpose, and find a way out.

The Bald Truth

David Falk 2009

The Bald Truth

Superagent David Falk -- the man who called the shots for some of the greatest heroes in the history of basketball -- reveals the innovative business secrets that catapulted him to the top of his game! David Falk is the most successful agent in the game of basketball. He has represented more NBA first-round draft selections, lottery picks, Blockbuster free agents, and Al-Star franchise cornerstones than anyone else in the business. He changed the NBA's entire salary structure with a unique approach to negotiations that garnered him one of the biggest contracts in major league history, including Shaquille O'Neal's $90 million contract with the Boston Celtics -- the first ever so personalized sports supercontract. The groundbreaking film deal for Michael Jordan, the most successful endorsement relationship in history, revolutionized basketball by creating the game's first commercial superstar. Benchmark called Falk one of the single most influential people, second only to NBA commissioner David Stern. In The Bald Truth, Falk, respected throughout the industry as an innovator, candidly unveils the business secrets that have fueled his extraordinary success. For the first time, he shares the fascinating insider details of how he negotiated lucrative contracts, learned from his mistakes, and branded and marketed not only the greatest basketball stars in history but also other elite athletes and coaches. Falk is blunt, he's fair, and he looks at the long run rather than the short-term gains. To make a great deal, he believes, both sides have to win. He adheres to steadfast principles, some of which he learned from the celebrated champions doctors and revered coaching legends -- like Georgetown's John Thompson and Duke's Mike Krzyzewski -- who have been long-standing clients and lifelong friends. Since Falk began representing athletes more than thirty-five years ago, basketball has grown from a fledgling team sport to a multibillion-dollar business with celebrity players, powerful endorsement deals, salary caps, and ever-evolving free agency rules. He has made millions of dollars for himself and his clients, but today he remains in the business for one reason: love of the game -- on and off the court.
